NUPPAA – the Public Policies Center: Analysis and Evaluation – of the National Institute of Science and Technology in Public Policies, Strategies, and Development, in association with INCT-IDN (National Institute of Science and Technology in Management and Innovation in Neglected Diseases) and INCT Proprietas, in collaboration with the Brazilian College of Higher Studies of UFRJ, will present its Fourth Seminar: “Dismantling Public Policies and New State Capacities for the Postpandemic Future,” which will take place virtually (using the ZOOM platform) during the days of 16 and 17 November 2020. The event is free and registration will only take place through the event site: <http://inctpped.ie.ufrj.br/nuppaa>.

The Fourth NUPPAA Seminar, carrying on the tradition of previous iterations, has the objective of bringing together public and private actors with track records in the analysis and evaluation of public policies, including professors, researchers, government public managers, the Third Sector, postgraduate students and professionals who are doing postdocs in Brazil and abroad, as well as related networks in the National Institutes of Science and Technology in Rio de Janeiro and around the country.

The Themes of the Third NUPPAA Workshop

PPED/UFRJ, INCT-PPED, INCTP-IDN, INCT PROPRIETAS, CBAE

Banking on interdisciplinarity and interinstitutional linkage, NUPPAA, as well as its supporting institutions, has been successful in bringing together a particular epistemic community, domestic and international, that combines distinct theoretical matrices but is capable of generating a fruitful dialogue across areas, fields, themes, and theoretical frames with great potential for the understanding of contemporary processes.

The multidimensional crisis brought on by the rapid spread of COVID-19 raises the question of the postpandemic world. Analysts are divided about betting on the possibility of a return to a supposed normalcy, which was already being contested in multiple domains, or on a radical change to a scenario that presents renewed challenges and a new configuration of ways of acting and thinking in society. Changes in the coalition of forces that support governments of distinct political leanings are, in general, accompanied by systematic actions to undercutting policies and institutions, with prospective impacts on historically constructed governmental capacities.

The call for papers for the Fourth NUPPAA Seminar suggests, but does not restrict to these themes, papers that seek to assess state capacities, the dismantling of policies and institutions, new state capacities for the post-COVID-19 world, and sustainable development policies in the envisaged scenarios.
